Subject: Regarding sending the review / feedback of Bangladesh Agriculture Research Council (BARC) on the concept note of project “Diversified and Resilient Agriculture for Improved Food and Nutrition Security (DRAIFNS)”

Source: A-mail message of Ministry of Agriculture

According to aforementioned subject, this is to inform you the opinion from BARC on the concept note of the project titled “Diversified and Resilient Agriculture for Improved Food and Nutrition Security (DRAIFNS)” proposed by FAO is hereby sent for timely information and necessary action.

Review and comments from BARC on Concept Note proposed by FAO are given below:

1. This project proposal (Concept Note) covers three diversified ecosystems viz. Coastal zone, Barind and Drought Prone areas, River system and Estuaries (Charland), which rightly cover a greater part of Bangladesh.
2. The Concept Note prepared after a series of consultation workshops organized by FAO- Dhaka where a good number of expertise participated and gave their opinions.
3. Implementation of this project will surely increase food production and improve nutrition with improved on-farm water & post-harvest management, and efficient market access of a vast population.
4. The focal point of BARC, Dr. Mian Sayeed Hassan, participated in all the workshops/meetings. The focal point made comments for the preparation of the proposal, which are rightly incorporated into the recent version of the proposal.
5. The objectives considered in the project are highly needed in Bangladesh Agricultural development right now.
6. Therefore, this project proposal (Concept Note) may be submitted to GAFSP for approval.
